STEAMER HAS FIGHT WITH SUBMARINE

German U-Boat Defeated and Probably Sunk By American S. S. Tidewater,
Which Uses Guns to Good Advantage

(By Associated Press)
Washington, May 7.—A fight between the American steamer Tidewater and a German submarine on March 17th in which the submarine was defeated and perhaps sunk, was reported to the navy department today.

The department announcement says: "The commander of the armed guard on the steamer Tidewater reports to the navy department that on March 17th about 11.30 p. m. a submarine was sighted off the starboard bow, heading towards the vessel about 150 yards off. As the ship turned it missed the submarine, but by no more than 20 feet. The U-boat was then submerged. The ship's guns were brought to bear and the first shot hit some distance ahead of her wake. Two other shots were also fired one making a clean hit and satisfied the crew that it was effective. We resumed our course and commenced zig-zagging, standing by for an attack but the submarine didn't appear again. We made all preparations for an attack at daybreak but saw no sign of the submarine."

We Are Pleased

to inform you that a fairly complete and modern kitchen can be had by the addition of one single piece of furniture to any room that has a sink and a stove, and that one piece is a Sellers "Kitcheed," the kitchen cabinet of the better kind.

It is better because it has all others outdistanced for efficiency of design and handiness. The metal floor bin is easily raised and lowered for filling, without lifting a pound; there is an enamel front which pulls out, giving a large working area, eliminating crowding of utensils; there are convenient shelves reached without bending or straining; trays shoot out automatically; there is drawer room for every known kind of cooking or kitchen utensil. A roll-top front shuts out the dust and dirt. Everything is absolutely sanitary and easy to keep clean.

There are so many good features about the Sellers Cabinet that a personal visit is necessary in order to appreciate it. Our time is yours.

ST. LOUIS HAS A $3,000,000 FIRE

Packing Houses--Grain Elevator and Other Buildings Burned--Police Mak- ing Investigation

(By Associated Press)
St. Louis, May 6.—Fire which started at five o'clock this afternoon in the Independent Packing Co., in North St. Louis, destroyed five ware houses of the Packing Co., and the Rogers grain elevator, a four-story building of the Union Packing Company, and a number of smaller warehouses.

The loss is estimated at between two and three millions. Police have started an investigation as to the origin of the fire.

THE NEW BEER BEING SOLD HERE

A sale of fine so-called near beer being carried on in this city and the adjacent suburbs is much opposed to stopping its sale, claiming that it will help the enforcement of real intoxicating liquors to allow it to be sold.

One of the local dispensers of the new beer has received a chemical analysis of his product in which it is shown that there is not a trace of alcohol of any description, so that this would not come under even the drastic ruling of Chief Healey of Manchester. Several of the local dealers are fitted up to handle the new beverage and they seem to be doing a good business in this line.

There is no doubt but what it has been the cause of a little drunkenness in this city, for if there was no substitute such as is being sold the hard drinkers would in some way get the hard stuff. As it is now everybody seems contented with the new beer, which as the old colored fellow says, "It looks like beer, it smells like beer, it tastes like beer, but it just ain't got the authority."

SIX POUNDS OF FLOUR A MONTH

Boston, May 6.—Beginning Monday, May 13, Boston goes on a strict flour ration of six pounds of flour to a person for a month.

This was announced today by P. A. O'Connell, county representative for the state food administration.

The announcement that the state food administration is planning big flour warehouses at different parts of the state for "redistribution of flour stocks," forecast seizures of household stocks decided, upon investigation, to be excessive enough to be classed as hoarded.

What will determine "reasonable" supplies permitted in a house, Mr. O'Connell, declined to state until after all reports have been tabulated and a plan of operation, uniform throughout the state, has been fixed.

Part of the preliminary work will be checking up the householders' reports—the time limit on which has been extended till May 11—with the reports of grocers' sales to customers.

Mr. O'Connell explained that persons having a household supply purchased some time ago, not excessive in amount, will probably not be molested by the food administration officers.

But persons who have filed reports will be compelled to make the registered supply they have on hand last at the rate of six pounds per person a month, and will be refused flour until expiration of that time. Children under 12 months are not considered "persons."

Flour will be sold only at the rate of six pounds a month, and any surplus will be subject to seizure or confiscation and may entail heavy fines or imprisonment.

After Monday all householders will be obliged on demand of the proper food authorities or their representatives to permit examination of their premises for flour, whether the 30-pound report has been filed or not.

With the flour seized from those having an "excessive surplus" the persons without flour will be supplied, and no flour will be shipped into the state until the next harvest.

Flour seized may be paid for at the market rate, although the food administration has not yet determined if a person has equal amounts of substitutes and flour, whether substitutes will be seized too.

BELIEVE SPIES STOLE AUTO AT NASHUA

Kennebunk, Me., May 7.—When firemen had extinguished the flames in a blazing automobile at 2 o'clock this morning, search of the ruined car revealed German propaganda in such quantity as to lead Chairman Frank Parsons of the local public safety committee to notify federal secret service men in Portland who came here at once and began an investigation.
The license bureau records showed that the car had been the property of Mrs. Grace J. Curtis of Wilton, N. H., and had been stolen while she and her husband were attending a theatre in Nashua, 16 miles away. The machine had been left in front of the theatre and after its disappearance police all over New England were notified.

Among the articles found in the car were an English dictionary, used frequently, it is said, in drafting the German codes; a uniform of a private of the U. S. army and other articles pertaining to the service; a metal tag bearing the name of Melvin W. Lamphier, private medical corps, on the obverse side, and the numbers 833,717; Boston and New York papers containing descriptive articles of the departure of the German undercover rider Deutschland, and bearing the date of August, 1916, and a complete camping kit such as used by touring motorists. It is believed that the person or persons who stole the car in Nashua had tried to steal gasoline from the private garage of Harold Grant in Kennebunk, that gasoline fumes being ignited from a lighted match caused an explosion which set fire to the car and to a corner of the garage. Peter Nedau, a neighbor of Grant, heard the explosion and saw the flames, and immediately called the department. The fireman found that the woodwork on the car had been scorched and that the contents were only partially destroyed.

Sheriff Roberts of Sanford and deputies who hurried to the scene scoured the woods for the occupants of the motor and telegraph and telephone lines were invoked in the search. The train, railroad yards, stations, and freight and passenger depots were searched but to no avail. There is a well defined theory that the men are deserters from the United States army and that they were out of funds and forced to purloin gasoline to continue their flight.

DOUBT U. S. POLICY

Tokio, May 4.—Some misgivings as to the policy of the United States as affecting Siberia recently have found expression in the Japanese house of representatives. Conviction that Japan should pay close attention to the activity of the United States in Russian territory was expressed by Manabu Tanaka in a speech in the house recently. This activity he said, might be designed to obtain rights and interests of various kinds. Tanaka said he believed that if America attained its object a hard blow would be dealt to the interests of the Japanese empire.

He thought that American sympathy for Russia was largely due to her ambition to implant her influence there by utilizing the present opportunity for investing her large capital in an extensive area of Russian territory to exploit Russia's vast natural resources and to help forward Russia's civilization. To speak frankly, he believed that another object of the United States in showing sympathy to Russia might be to check the advance of Japanese influence northwards.

The speaker also referred to a rumor that the United States was trying to purchase Kamchatka because America had an idea of instituting a significant scheme of communication between the three continents of America, Asia and Europe.

Washington, May 6.—Representatives of oil interests on the Pacific coast were in consultation today with Secretary of Navy Daniels and Mark L. PRES. ORDERS AIRCRAFT INVESTIGATION

Washington, May 6.—A Department of Justice investigation of charges of graft in aircraft production made by Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor, was ordered today by President Wilson.

Borglum's charges of pro-German influence also will be investigated. Demand for a criminal investigation was made in the Senate recently.

At the same time the order for investigation was announced, President Wilson's correspondence with Mr. Borglum was given out at the White House. It disclosed that the President last month advised Borglum he never considered him an official investigator and practically disposed of his services.

The aircraft situation has brought repeated charges of inefficiency on the part of those in charge of it and demands for inquiry prompted President Wilson to name an investigating commission headed by Snowden Marshall. About the same time the President authorized Borglum to make an investigation. Borglum's report never was made public formally, although enough of its contents became known to show that the sculptor had made charges against those in control and had alleged there was graft in production on planes.

The Senate became so stirred over the situation that senators asked that the Senate military committee renew its inquiry with a view of learning if criminal prosecutions should be brought. A majority report by the committee some weeks ago charged that Government officials had kept the public in ignorance of the real state of affairs and recommended a one-man aircraft control. Subsequently President Wilson put John D. Ryan in charge of production.

Investigation by the Department of Justice was asked of the President by Howard Coffin, formerly chairman of the Aircraft Board, who declared he requested it in order that the reputation of innocent men might not be ruined by charges that had been made. Mr. Coffin sent the following telegram to the President Saturday from his place in Georgia:

"Charges of dishonesty have been made against the Aircraft Board, which demand the fullest inquiry. I request and urge that an official inquiry be had, in order that the reputation of innocent men may not be ruined."

President Wilson telegraphed him today as follows:

"Your telegram received. You may be sure I shall cooperate in every way to prevent what you rightly foresee may happen. The Department of Justice will cooperate to the utmost in seeing that all charges are probed and the truth got at."

HARDENED ARTERIES

The audiences are increasing at the Chautauque Health Lectures in the First Methodist church, Miller avenue, near Middle street, by J. C. Elliott, the church was packed Sunday night and a large audience Monday night. Mr. Elliott spoke on one of the battleships Sunday morning and addressed the Methodist Union Monday morning and will speak before the high school Tuesday morning. The lectures will be held daily in the Methodist church at 2:30 and 7:45. These lectures present a sane, common sense method of the care of the body for prevention of disease. They are both practical and scientific and presented so that a child may obtain a health education.

Worry, indigestion and constipation will be discussed at the lecture Tuesday at 2:30. Mr. Elliott says: "Worry is the danger signal for the whole body. It will destroy the digestion of the food supply and turn the most wholesome food into a rank poison."

Both Ends (Producer and Consumer) Against The Middle (The Packer)

The consumer wants to pay a low price for meat.
The farmer wants to get a high price for cattle.
The packer stands between these conflicting demands, and finds it impossible to completely satisfy both.

The packer has no control over the prices of live stock or meat, and the most that can be expected of him is that he keep the difference between the two as low as possible. He does this successfully by converting animals into meat and distributing the meat at a minimum of expense, and at a profit too small to be noticeable in the farmer's returns for live stock or in the meat bill of the consumer.

Swift & Company's 1917 transactions in Cattle were as follows:

	Average Per Head
Sold meat to Retailer for	$68.97
Sold By-products for	24.09
Total Receipts	$93.06
Paid to Cattle Raiser	$8.45
Balance (not paid to Cattle Raiser)	$ 8.61
Paid for labor and expenses at Packing House, Freight on Meat, and Cost of operating Branch distributing houses	7.32
Remaining in Packers' hands as returns on investment	$ 1.29

The net profit was $1.29 per head, or about one-fourth of a cent per pound of beef.

By what other method can the difference between cattle prices and beef prices be made smaller, and how can the conflicting demands of producer and consumer be better satisfied?

Expressions to Be Shunned.

In an address from the platform in New Mexico a few days ago in behalf of the Liberty Loan, Secretary McAdoo is reported to have said: "Don't be a 25-cent patriot when you can be a $5,000-patriot; don't lend 25 cents on a thrift stamp when you can buy $5,000 bonds."

This was well meant and was all right so far as the secretary's real meaning was fully grasped. What he meant was that everybody should lend to the government according to their means, and to this proposition no exception can be taken. But there is a certain danger in such an expression as "Don't be a 25-cent patriot when you can be a $5,000-patriot."

This paper is already on record against the practice of shouting "slacker!" to young men who for perfectly valid reasons have not yet entered the service, and to people who for reasons best understood by themselves have not invested in Liberty bonds to the extent that some of their neighbors may think they should have done. Such twitting, for it is nothing less, can do no good, and there is danger that it may do much harm by causing hard feelings where only good will should be cultivated. People do not like to be called slackers and the term should never be used except in cases where the evidence of slacking is clear and indisputable.

The people did well in connection with the third Liberty loan. There were times when it went a little slow in some sections of the country, but the amount called for was oversubscribed, as were the two preceding loans.

For these reasons it was risky for a man in Secretary McAdoo's position to use such an expression as is attributed to him. It is to be assumed that the buyers of thrift stamps are as patriotic as the buyers of bonds, and if there is to be the general good feeling that ought to prevail it will not do to measure the patriotism of any person by the amount he loans to the government. If we begin to talk about 25-cent patriots and $5,000-patriots there is liable to be engendered a feeling that no credit attaches to the loaning of modest sums, but that, on the other hand, such loans are liable to subject to ridicule those who make them. It is to be believed the country is far from having made its last call for financial assistance in conducting the war, and if people who have thus far done what they could it is not for any one, in high station or low, to charge them with being slackers because they have not done more. And what applies to finances applies also to men.

No one will accuse Secretary McAdoo of intending any disrespect in what he said regarding 25-cent patriots and $5,000-patriots, but it was an unhappy expression, nevertheless. A patriot is a patriot, regardless of his financial standing, and it is only fair to assume that those who have loaned to the government have done the best they could, even though the sums in many cases are small. Under all the circumstances, however, that is said about "25-cent patriots" and about "slackers" among the young men, in the absence of irrefutable evidence, the better it will be for the country and the mighty cause in which it is enlisted.

Not all Germans or people of German descent are disloyal by any means. The Liberty Loan drive struck the Boston and Maine railroad yard at East Deerfield, Mass., the other day and in a few hours $5,100 had been subscribed. And among the subscribers were numerous men of German ancestry.

Under a new law there can be no saloons in Texas within ten miles of any military camp or shipbuilding plant working on government contracts. The combination of war and prohibition promises to result in the greatest drouth in history.

The Rhode Island State Board of Education has decreed that every teacher in the public schools must swear allegiance to the United States. This will strike many as a close approach to "flapdoodle," or, in other words, patriotism gone to seed.

It is unfortunate that the ocean liner, St. Paul, should have gone over on her side, but it is much better that this should have happened at "an Atlantic port," otherwise known as New York, than in mid-ocean.

And now Dover gets a slice of war prosperity, the Farmington Shoe Company having taken a contract to turn out 170,000 pairs of "Pershing" trench shoes for the government.

Spring is coming. Advices from Northern Maine are to the effect that the snow is not more than a foot deep there now, and that the ice on the lakes and streams is breaking up!

The Amoskeag Manufacturing Company of Manchester has taken a million dollars' worth of Liberty bonds. It is a pity that there are not more Amoskeags.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Fears the Avalanche
(From the Baltimore American)
Having had a taste of how Americans fight it is small wonder that Germany is so anxious to end the war before we get into it in force.

"Onward With God!"
(From the New York World)
The assassin who caused the war is dead, but the assassin who started and continues it is still waiting a shining sword.

Schnapps Are Scrapped
(From the Brooklyn Eagle)
Prohibition gains another leg in England when Holland shuts off her gin. It used to be said that 30,000 pils were fed from the mash from the Schiedam distilleries alone.

A Story Told by Potatoes
(From the Topeka State Journal)
Our potato crop averages about thirty bushels per acre, that of European Russia 100 bushels, France 135 bushels, Austria 150 bushels, United Kingdom 121 bushels and Germany 200 bushels and upward per acre, the large flavorless potato, grown chiefly for alcohol, having reached and sometimes exceeded 500 bushels per acre. It is such efficiency as this that enables the Germans to keep up the fight.

What! Not Vote for "Andy" Jackson?
(From the Kansas City Star)
The Kansas Democrats are considering the question of placing no state ticket in the field this fall, asking the voters only to vote for the Democratic candidates for members of Congress.

But it is quite unnecessary for the dispatch from Topeka to add that this suggestion is being opposed by the old-fashioned organization Democrat. It wouldn't be an old-fashioned organization Democrat if he favored such a modern movement as that.

Mourn For the Lost Marines
(From the New York Herald)
The enlisted men of the United States Marine Corps who were drowned at sea when the steamship City of Athens sank after being accidentally rammed by a French cruiser died in the service of their country as truly as if they had fallen in battle. While none of them had handled a rifle or worn the uniform of the glorious fighting organization to which they were attached, every man had volunteered and had taken the oath.
They were on their way to the camp on Paris Island, S. C., to undergo intensive training and fit themselves for fighting for Old Glory anywhere and at any time they might be called. They went "over the top" when they enlisted in the Marine Corps. Although they never got the chance to fight on the battlefield against the Prussian foe of civilization, they none the less died in their country's service and should have a place high on its honor roll.

Americans Talk Too Much
(From the Pittsburgh Dispatch)
Major General E. D. Swinton, credited with being the inventor of the "tank," and who was "eyewitness" for the British staff, reported the earlier battles in France, has addressed a few friendly words to Americans that seem needed at Washington.
"One thing you Americans must do," he says, "and that is not talk so much about your war preparations. I see now some talk about building a gun to shoot 100 miles. Well, if you build such a gun, build it, but don't talk about it. The same is true about your airplane programme. Let the Germans have their first taste when they see your air fleets in the air over their lines."
General Swinton practices what he preaches. The first the Germans knew of his "tanks" was when they came waddling across No Man's Land scattering death and destruction as they lumbered forward. So with the Germans. They did not advertise their 70-mile gun, their poison gas or their liquid fire. Who can guess how many inventions they have tried out that failed and no one the wiser.

But at Washington every program is press-agented far and wide. Look at our shipbuilding stunt. Most of the criticism and disappointment to ourselves and our allies in that field was due to exaggerated publicity at the start. The same with our airplane programme, with the pitiful mouse that resulted from the mountain's labors. Eventually we shall no doubt catch up and surpass the advance notices, but think how much disappointment and discouragement of plans here and abroad would have been avoided had our official publicists had General Swinton's advice at the outset and acted upon it.

Will Russia Come Back?
(From the Baltimore Star)
Russia, according to advices from Petrograd, is preparing to re-enter the war, if such is the case Germany through her underground and underhand channels of information, has had full knowledge, which may in part account for her concentrated drive on the western front. A meeting of the "Executive Council" at Petrograd, may dispatches, was attended by representatives of the American, British and Japanese Governments, which in their dispatches, said of Russia, more important is the reported assertion of these representatives that Russia must either get back in the war on the side of the Allies or suffer division among the other Powers. "The other Powers" may mean either the Central Empires or the Allied nations. Left to the mercy of Germany, Russia will be dismembered. We have witnessed the beginning of this in the carving away from her of several of her Baltic provinces and southeastern sections. Of course, as Germany is bound to be whipped and will not have the deciding voice at the peace conference, it is not improbable that the Allies will have to settle the fate of Russia in a way that will secure them from further aggression by the Hun. The big question is, Can Russia come back? This question will be answered in the affirmative if the Allies have the disposal of the warring factions. Let them be given control of the political destinies of that at present helpless country and they will take steps to revivify the drooping army and put it in the field. Even as matters now stand Germany has to keep a rein upon her supplies for her army. And a tight rein, or she will regret ever imposing on Russia the humiliating terms she did impose. There are great possibilities in the Russian situation. If she can and will come back before the end of this year her reentry would be welcomed.

Tells the Whole Story
(From the New York Herald)
Rev. Cyrus Townsend Brady presents in succinct form the case against the German people and that against the use of the German language in this country when he says:
We are at war with the whole German people—not merely with the Hohenzollerns and the Junker class but with every German. They are all tarred with the same stick. It is impossible to read the statements of returned or escaped prisoners, verification of which is ample, without arriving at the conclusion that the women and children are as bad as the men. When women of all classes make a practice of spitting upon helpless wounded prisoners and upon women and sick children who happen to use an English word in their hearing; when German Red Cross women refuse food to starving prisoners, in some cases pouring it upon the ground in their presence to tantalize them—when children are taught to throw stones at stockade prisoners and join in celebrations of the sinking of the Lusitania, they show themselves on a level in spirit with the rapists, ravagers and persecutors in the German army. Therefore the only way we shall have for the German language will be to enable carefully selected persons make the Germans understand what they must do to be saved after we have beaten them to the dust.
Dr. Brady holds that the German people are not to be trusted, whether they live here or in Germany. That is true. It does not hold, however, against Americans who happen to have German blood in their veins, nor is it intended for Americans are Americans. Germans are Germans. There can be no divided allegiance, no "fifty-fifty" of loyalty or of thought. There is no hyphen now. All who are not for America are against it.

Malplaquet And Not Sedan
(From the Louisville Post)
Summing up the German effort in the great battle now temporarily over, Mr. Simonds says that the Germans have been able to win "only indecisive and local victories, great beyond all debate, but victories resembling Malplaquet and not Sedan."
The historical analogy is excellent as to what has gone before, and we can all hope as to what is to come. Of course the word Sedan is descriptive of complete, dazzling military success. It was at Sedan, Sept. 2, 1870, that the emperor of the French surrendered with his whole army to the victorious armies of the King of Prussia. No nation has ever been so crushed at a single battle. It was a Sedan that the Germans sought in the engagement that began March 21 last, and Mr. Simonds tells us that what they have gained has been Malplaquet.
The battle of Malplaquet will be always remembered as the last great battle of the Duke of Marlborough, of whom it was said that he never failed to take a fortress he tried to take or came away from a battlefield other than a victor. But Malplaquet was one of those victories that are worse than a defeat. For three years the allied armies, under the command of the English duke had won victory after victory, and then the victorious armies entered France to deal the last blow. The French people rallied then, now 200 years ago, just as they rallied three years ago. The French army interposed itself between the advancing army and Paris and the most desperate battle of the century was fought on the field of Malplaquet, not very far from the scene of the present engagement. It is true that the end of the day found the allied armies occupying the ground upon which the French stood when the fighting began, and the Duke of Marlborough was congratulated as a victor, but the terrible sacrifice and slight gain of Malplaquet brought to an end the campaign against France and resulted in the duke's recall to England and in early peace. The French lost in the field of battle, but won the campaign.

We are justified in considering the German achievements in this battle as a duplication of the fighting at Malplaquet, but will the aftermath be the same? Not at once, certainly. The Germans are sure to try again, but the next blow will hardly be as dangerous as the last.

AMERICANS DECORATED IN FRANCE

With the American Army in France May 7—One American officer and three privates were awarded the Cross of war at a hospital near Verdun last evening for gallantry displayed in the recent raid by German shock troops on American positions. The awards were made by a French general. The soldiers decorated are: Lieut. Harry J. Kelley, Ottawa, Ill. Private Dewey D. Smith, Stearns, Miss. Private George A. Hopkins, Baltimore. Private Aloristus Brown, Brooklyn.
Lieut. Kelley and Private Brown were cited in an army order, receiving a palm with the medal. The other privates are cited in the corps orders. Lieut. Kelley and Privates Brown and Hopkins each lost a leg. Lieut. Kelley's citation reads:
"Wounded in both legs and made prisoner by five of the enemy, he bravely defended himself and escaped with the aid of a few men who had run to his assistance. Wounded again, he had to spend the entire night at a trench and before it was evacuated."
Lieut. Kelley was a reserve officer at Fort Sheridan.
Private Hopkins is a Spanish-American war veteran and has a son in France. He was cited as a model of bravery.
Private Brown's citation reads:
"He valiantly performed his duty during the German assault. He killed two Germans with his own hands when seven surrounded him and demanded that he surrender."
Private Smith was wounded while bravely defending his post.
The presentation took place in the ward of the hospital where the men are being treated. The medals being pinned upon their pajamas.

A WALKING FLAG
(By Associated Press)
Paris, May 6.—A small black negro, a citizen of the Belgian Congo, dressed in Red, propelling a push cart painted yellow, may be seen on the boulevards of Brussels, says Libre Belgique, the Belgian newspaper, that the Germans have been unable to suppress. The negro is selling shoe polish. Belgians who still possess shoes take great pleasure in buying from the negro.
He is doing a rushing business and will probably continue to do so until it filters through the German's thick cantonment that the quality of the shoe polish is not the reason for the negro's popularity with purchasers because as he perambulates down the boulevards his black visage, red costume and yellow cart represent a living Belgian flag.

PEACE NOW WOULD MEAN MILITARISM'S TRIUMPH.
London, May 6.—James H. Thomas, Liberal M. P. for Derby, speaking at Derby yesterday, said that the millions already killed or wounded must make every good citizen long for such a peace as would render impossible a renewal of the conflict in ten or fifteen years which whatever additional horrors science might devise. In the meantime, however, he said, it was futile to talk of peace in the present military situation. He believed Germany would accept a peace tomorrow on the basis of the status quo ante in the west and would even give France some territorial compensation in return for a free hand in the east. But that would only lay the foundations for another war, as Japan and America would have to maintain large armies and navies, and militarism, instead of being defeated, would be triumphant.

BROOKLYN MAN ACCUSED OF SEDITION

New York, May 7.—Hundreds of copies of a book said to contain German propaganda were seized at a meat market in Brooklyn today, when agents of the department arrested Stephen Binder, proprietor of the store on a charge of violating the Espionage act by distributing alleged seditious literature.

The book is said to term the government one of misrule, guided by English hands, and to assert that the country is controlled by capitalists and autocrats.

Binder, who was held in $10,000 bail, for the federal grand jury is said to have come to this country from Germany several years ago. Since living in Brooklyn he studied English at night school.

YOUNG BRIDE KILLED BY LIGHTNING

Freeport, Me., May 7.—Mrs. Hannah Bowle, aged 20, and a bride of but a few weeks, was instantly killed Monday afternoon by a lightning bolt which entered the kitchen window at which she was sitting. A. H. As it passed it went into the open window and killed Mrs. Bowle.

Monday's thunder storm was one of the most terrific that has passed over Freeport for several seasons, the lightning being unusually vivid while there was a heavy downpour of rain.

BRANDED IRON CROSS ON ZULU

Boston, May 7.—The story of the horrors of a German prison camp in East Africa was told by John J. Mitchell, 25, a Zulu, at a hearing before the board of Special Inquiry at the Immigration Station on Long wharf yesterday afternoon. For six months the man was confined in a German East African prison camp where he was half starved, branded and otherwise mistreated.

On his left forearm is tattooed a facsimile of a German iron cross, about two inches square, with the numeral 3, the prisoner's number, alongside. The man suffered excruciating pain while his captors branded him with red-hot electric needles.

Mitchell was a coal passer on a former German steamer seized by the British and sunk off the Cape of Good Hope by a German raider.

Three of the fireroom force were killed by the explosion of a shell. The crew were taken from the boats on board the raider and landed at a German East African port.

The survivors were marched to the prison camp where every one was branded. German officers and soldiers laughed at the sufferings of the seamen.

For nearly six months they were so closely guarded that there was no chance to escape. A few prisoners who attempted to cross the dead line were shot down by the guards. The white prisoners, according to Mitchell, were flogged and terribly abused.

Gen. Smuts in command of the British forces attacked the town, and after six days of fighting, the Germans were forced to capitulate. When a shell from British guns tore away part of the prison stockade, the prisoners hid in the brush until the following morning when they sought the protection of the British flag.

They were treated by British doctors and cared for until they were able to leave.

Mitchell shipped on a British steamer bound to Boston with a cargo of wool and on reaching here deserted and secured employment as a dock laborer with two other Zulus.

In the recent roundup by federal officers of aliens Mitchell was arrested. He admitted he had paid no head tax and was, therefore, in the country illegally. He was turned over to the immigration authorities for deportation.

Mitchell may not be deported however, as he is a British subject and has convinced the immigration authorities that he is not liable to become a public charge. The man, with his two companions will probably be released today upon the payment of the $5 head tax.

Machine With Camp Outfit Goes Up in Smoke.

About 2:30 o'clock Monday morning the members of the Kennebunk fire department were called to Hubbs garage on the turnpike in Kennebunk and found a Ford touring car with New Hampshire license number 2380, on fire. The car was pretty well filled up with a camping outfit, while a number of daily papers of 1918, containing the sailing of German U-boats were found.

The parties who were riding in the auto stopped at the garage to get some gasoline and the machine evidently back-fired and set the auto on fire. The parties with it did not hang around long afterwards and disappeared from sight while Deputy Sheriff Ernest L. Jones and the Kennebunk officers have been endeavoring to locate them.

FROM A SON ON THE WEST COAST

The editor of this paper is in receipt of a letter from Dr. Samuel P. Han, formerly of this city, now a resident of Los Angeles, Cal., where he has resided for the past fifteen years.

In his letter he encloses a poem in which he expresses his (and remembrance of old Strawberry Bank. The letter follows:

"2300 Hidalgo Ave., Los Angeles, Cal., May 1, 1918.

"Editor--Fifteen years ago, April 21, 1903, we left Portsmouth for Los Angeles, where we arrived on the 30th. Today, just 15 years from the day of our arrival here, Charles Whitten Han and wife, start on a return trip for the old home, for a short sojourn there only.

"It would please me much to accompany them, re-affirm my old time allegiance, and renew the many ties of friendship broken so many years ago, though pleasant memories thereof never cease.

"Truly yours,
"Dr. Samuel P. Han."

Dr. Han's poem reads thus:
In Fond Remembrance of My Old Home, Portsmouth, N. H.

Dear native city by the sea,
I hold thee in sweet memory;
Thy lofty aims in ancient days,
Thy love expressed for absent babes,
Still shine on time's illumined page.
Ancestral homes of noble streets,
Whose hearth-stones glow with loyal fires,
The grand old river sweeping by,
Are land-marks ever to native eyes.

Thy hills adorned with autumn scenes
Or fresh thy fields with living green,
Flash past on memories' active screen.
As thou I see in passing dreams,
My heart then thrills with love for thee
Dear old city by the sea.

—Dr. S. P. Han, Los Angeles, Cal., May 1, 1918.

TWICE PROVEN

If you suffer backache, sleepless nights, tired dull days and distressing urinary disorders, don't experiment. Read this twice-told testimony. It's Portsmouth evidence—doubly proven.

Mrs. John Smart, 172 Gates street, says: "I had sharp pains through the small of my back, which at times changed to a dull, grinding ache. Whenever I exerted myself in any way the pains were more severe. I was tired all the time, lacked ambition, and in the morning always felt worse. Believing these were symptoms of kidney trouble, I tried various kidney medicines, but without getting the least benefit until I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills procured at Philbrick's Pharmacy. Judging from the results they have already given me, I am convinced they will cure me."

OVER FOUR YEARS LATER, Mrs. Smart said: "I still heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills very highly. They have given me permanent benefit."

DRYDEN TO MEET PINKEY GARDNER

Bill Dryden will probably close the wrestling season on Thursday when he meets Pinky Gardner in this city. This should be a fitting closing for one of the best seasons of wrestling this city has ever enjoyed. The matches have been good and some of the best men in the country have been shown here.

In Pinky Gardner Dryden meets a man that has got the decision over John Kilonis, and a man who the Manchester critics say is the master of the Greek at all times. He is a southern wrestler who has a reputation all over the country and said to be one of the fastest and cleanest men in the game. In Dryden he will meet a man that is capable of going as fast as any of them and who naturally is a clean wrestler. Bill has not wrestled since he was defeated by John Kilonis, but he is in the shape and it should be one of the best matches of the entire year.

ITALIANS UNABLE TO GET BEER LEAVE CITY

An Italian contractor stated on Monday that over 100 Italian laborers who have been working here, left town on Saturday owing to their inability to get beer. The Italians are great beer drinkers and while many of them had in a big supply they soon drank it up, and rather than go without, they left town.

He said there is such a demand for labor that these men can get work anywhere and simply preferring to work where they can have beer, they quit here and left for Massachusetts. He said that some were apparently satisfied with the new beer.

TO HOLD GOLF TOURNAMENT FOR RED CROSS

The Golf Committee of the Country Club are to hold the first tournament of the season for the benefit of the Red Cross. This will be held the Saturday of the big drive and a big entry is expected. By that time the permanent greens will be opened to play and the course under such weather as Monday should come along very fast. The Golf Committee are J. Winslow Pelee, E. A. Goudy, Thomas P. Flanagan and B. M. Randall.

DRAFT EXTENDED TO YOUTHS BECOMING 21

Washington, May 6.—An agreement to extend the selective draft to youths who have come of age since June 5th, 1917, was reached today by the Senate and House conferees. The amendment of Rep. Hylt of Iowa to the effect that the new registrants shall take their place at the bottom of the list of men now available for service was retained.

LABOR DELEGATES IN FRANCE

Paris, May 6.—Members of the American delegation of labor, who are making a tour of England and France, held an hour and a half conference today with the labor leaders of this country. It is understood that the part the organized labor will play in the war settlement was under discussion and also that plans were made for a great international convention of labor, following the war.

ARE HOLDING VITAL SECTORS

(By Associated Press)

Australian and Canadian troops are in action along the British lines at the most vital sectors in the battle front in Flanders.

The Australians have struck the Germans near Morlincourt east of Amiens and have advanced their lines three-fourths of a mile as a result of two assaults on Tuesday forenoon.

The Canadian troops have appeared in the Arras sector further south than they have yet appeared since the present battle began on March 21. This part of the line is the most important to Arras and the southwest section.

American troops on the French front in Montdidier have been under a storm of shells for the past few days. High explosives have been mingled with the poisonous gas shells and they have been rained upon the lines held by the French men night and day.

Along the rest of the front no engagements of unusual character have been reported and there is nothing to indicate that the advance upon the Italian front by the massed Austrian troops has been started as yet.

The British who have been holding Es-Salt, east of the Jordan and north east of Jericho have been compelled to abandon this place for the second time before a superior force of Turkish and German troops. The British are still in command of the crossroads across the Jordan.

From official reports and from the dispatches of the special correspondents at the front, there is an indication that heavy fighting will be resumed shortly. There has been heavy rains and this may have had something to do with the halt in the fighting. There are every indication that the drive at the Amiens Arras and Ypres sectors will be started shortly.

There is little relative to the international situation in Austria, that has come out from that country, but from Serbian sources there is a report of clashes between the Austrian and the Salverian population. The methods by which the German military authorities handled the Ukraine situation is being denounced in both Berlin and Vienna by the socialists.

PACKING HOUSES BURNED IN ST. LOUIS

St. Louis, Mo., May 7.—Which started about 5 o'clock Monday afternoon in a warehouse of the Independent Packing Company in North St. Louis destroyed five storage houses of the packing company, the Rogers grain elevator, a four story building occupied by the Union Packing Company and a number of small storage sheds.

Officials of the packing companies and elevator company said the loss would not amount to more than $500,000. The police report on the fire, however, gave the loss as $3,000,000. Police officials have started an investigation.

Because it was feared the high wind would sweep the fire over the entire warehouse, elevator and packing plant district, a general alarm was turned in.

COURTMARTIAL CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTORS

Ayer, Mass., May 7.—Twenty-two conscientious objectors were placed on trial before a court martial at Camp Devens Monday for refusing to obey orders. The men were represented by George B. Rowser, Jr., of Boston and after he had entered a series of objections, Col. Frank M. Tompkins, the presiding officer, adjourned the case to a date to be fixed later.

CONCRETE SHIP TO GET A SEVERE TEST

Washington, May 6.—The steamer Faith, built of reinforced concrete, will leave a Pacific port today on a voyage of more than 9,000 miles to the Antipodes. The Faith is the first big vessel ever built of concrete and the first to fare forth on the high seas from an American port. With a speed of only nine knots, the ship will be at sea for a month before reaching the destination. If everything goes well, some shipping men shake their heads and say she never will make it. Others, particularly her builders, declare she will make the voyage triumphantly and that concrete ships soon will be as common as vessels of wood and steel. Needless to say, the eyes of the shipping world, the United States Government and the Allied nations will be on the Faith from the hour she noses out of port. She will send wireless reports daily. If the Faith succeeds something new will be demonstrated in the maritime world. Her cargo will be oil.

One of the builders of the Faith, Kenneth McDonald, as breezy as the West he calls home has been in Washington for several days and with everyone he has met he has talked of the ship in terms of optimism. He doesn't merely think the Faith will be successful; he knows it.

The transpacific voyage will put the Faith to a severe test. The Faith is of poured concrete, reinforced with steel rods. The heaviest piece of steel in her hull is only an inch and a half in diameter. Her sides are from three and a half to five inches thick. She is bulkheaded the same as an ordinary steel or wooden ship. The hull is 20 per cent heavier than a steel hull of the same size, but considerably lighter

PORTSMOUTH NOT ALONE

Boston, May 6.—That Squantum, Fore River, Boston and Watertown have housing problems of considerable importance was emphasized in a report which was submitted to Mayor Peters today by a committee of the Boston Society of Architects. The society has been investigating the situation by authority of the Boston City Council, which some time ago appropriated $2000 to cover the expenses of a survey.

The society makes only a partial report at this time, and suggests that it be submitted to Colonel Gaston and, if approved by him, to the Federal authorities. The report is accompanied by maps and charts.

Just about a year ago there were some 4000 men employed in war industries at Squantum and Fore River. By the middle of the summer this year there will be approximately 22,000, and if there is to be another shift the number of workers will be larger. Watertown will have 8000. The navy yard and the Commonwealth Pier will have additional employees. Under the presumption that most of the men employed in these plants will be married men, it is clear that some 100,000 individuals in this general vicinity will have to be provided for.

So far as the Commonwealth Pier is concerned the problem will not be one of housing, inasmuch as there is no land available for new houses, but transportation facilities will have to be provided. At the Charlestown Navy Yard there is some territory adjacent to the yard that in the opinion of the Society of Architects could be made available for new houses.

At Squantum the big problem will come. The society's report says that to crowd Quincy with barracks would be a permanent injury; to fill Dorchester with three-deckers would aggravate an existing evil. There are not houses enough in existence to accommodate all the workers that must be employed. There are not adequate transportation facilities to transport the men efficiently back and forth any considerable distance.

Hence the report proposes the use of the old mills stretch of land between Fore River and Squantum, both on the shore side and on the hills back of it. Good houses of a permanent class should be erected.

GERMAN AIRMEN REFUSE TO FIGHT

London, May 6.—Wounded British airmen back from France report that the squadron operating in an important sector on the Amiens front has probably established a record by bringing down 105 enemy machines in six weeks, including twenty-one on one day. The only member of the squadron known to have been wounded up to the time this man returned to London said it was hard work getting the German airmen to fight. "Practically the only times they would come out" he said, "were about nine o'clock in the morning, when the glare of the sun would be in our faces, and in the evening. Even then they would slip away if they had half a chance."

"The supreme confidence of our fellows is half the battle. During the German offensive they have been doing four 'shows' a day, returning only for ammunition and an occasional meal and possibly a game of cards. If the morning's work was particularly good and the afternoon's threatened to be heavy, nearly all the machines were brought down were two-seaters. In fact, few of the German airmen will fly anything else. The pilots like a man with a gun behind them."

The airmen said the German infantry was bombed and machine-gunned by the aviators four times a day re-

RED CROSS DRIVE COMES NEXT

The Red Cross drive for the $100,000 war fund will begin on May 20th and last the entire week. It will be a short, but intensive campaign and the organization to put it over properly in this city is now being perfected.

President F. M. Sise of the Chamber of Commerce will be in charge of the district and Joseph P. Conner will be the local chairman and he will have to assist him Col. H. C. Taylor as chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, E. C. Matthews as chairman of the speakers committee, H. B. McDonough chairman of publicity, J. M. Washburn treasurer.

This city's quota will be $15,000 which can easily be handled, as the city gave more than that sum in the first campaign and now there are several more thousand people here.

U. S. GUARDS WANTED

Boston, May 6.—Applicants for the position of United States guard must be American citizens above the draft age and must furnish their complete personal history and letters of recommendation, which should accompany the first application and be addressed to the office of the adjutant-general at Washington, D. C.

Three battalions are to be raised to guard shipyards and industrial plants in New England. A total of 25,000 men will be recruited for the U. S. guards, for duty at various points.

The quartermaster's department will furnish uniforms and the ordnance department will provide all model machine guns, Russian rifles and old style army pistols when available.

SHOULD NOT COLLECT ON MAIL FROM SAILORS AND SOLDIERS AT FRONT

Office of Third Assistant Postmaster-General.
Washington, April 25, 1918.

Some postmasters are erroneously charging postage due on letters written and mailed by soldiers, sailors, and marines engaged in the present war. Attention is, therefore, invited to paragraphs 3 and 4, section 406, Postal Laws and Regulations, as amended by Order No. 362, dated October 3, 1917, appearing on page 29 of the October, 1917, supplement to the Postal Guide, from which it will be seen that such letters may be mailed and delivered to the addressees free of all postage charges.

The provisions of amended paragraph 2, section 406, Postal Laws and Regulations, relative to the routing of soldiers', sailors', and marines' letters with postage due at the single rate, to be collected on delivery, do not apply to such letters when written and mailed by soldiers, sailors, and marines assigned to duty in a foreign country engaged in the present war, since, as above stated, such letters are free.

BIG CROWD AT JEWISH BAZAAR OPENING

The three nights Jewish Bazaar for the Jewish Relief Fund, opened on Monday evening at Freeman's hall and there was a large attendance. The hall was attractively arranged and there was something for everybody and for everybody's pocketbook.

A number of booths were arranged about the hall all in charge of attractive young ladies who did a rushing business in the wares of their booths. There were many different articles on sale and there were ready buyers for all.

During the evening Master David Cohen rendered several selections on the violin and Lloyd's orchestra furnished music for the concert program and later played for dancing which was continued until midnight.

The bazaar is for the benefit of the Jewish Relief Fund, to help out the stricken Jews in the war zone especially in Russia and the Balkan states.

SNAP SHOT OF CRAP SHOOTERS DID THE TRICK

Police Have Camera Film Printed and Will Arrest Those Shown to Be Present.

A snap shot like a letter is not always the best thing to have in your possession, is the opinion of Alex Spicer.

Spicer, who enjoys snapping his friends in groups, has quite a collection of work of this kind, but none will be more memorable than that which he shot at on Sunday last which involved the select gathering at a West End crap game. Alex wanted a picture of the distinguished assemblage at the dice throwing fest and while the "7 come 11" boys were shooting the marked cubes, he pinched the bulb, then the cops plucked six of the gang, including Alex and his camera.

In court Alex was the only man who said he was guilty and after separating himself from $17 he was admitted again to the free zone, but the police held his kodak. The others said they were not guilty and their cases were continued.

The police caused the films of Spicer's kodak to be developed and printed and when the second photographer got through with Spicer's property between 20 and 25 spectators appeared to have been present whose names had not been divulged by the leading artists on the occasion. The police looked them over and decided that the diagram should be put in operation again. Consequently the raid has not been completed and the whole outfit will face the court as fast as they can be rounded up.

WRITES OF PORTSMOUTH SHIP BUILDING PLANTS

Winthrop L. Marvin, a Summer Resident of New Castle, Has Article in Leading Magazine.

Winthrop L. Marvin of Brookline and New Castle, has a most interesting story in the American Review of Reviews for May, entitled "New England Wants a Game on the Sea." This story is illustrated with pictures of the old and new ships.

Referring to the part Portsmouth is playing, he says, "Portsmouth on the deep Piscataqua has renewed its maritime glory. Within musket-shot of the shore where John Paul Jones' Ranger and America were launched, the new Atlantic Corporation is preparing the way for the first of a fleet of ten steel steamships each of 8800 tonnage, while further up, on a broad river branch, in the Shattuck yard, the frames of the pioneers of a Shipping Board wooden fleet of 15 also along the Newington farm lands. At the old Portsmouth navy yard where the shipwrights of the sixties wrought the victorious Kearsarge, the river is busy on Secretary Daniels' submarines."

WORKMAN MEETS HORRIBLE DEATH AT KITTELY JUNG.

Car Stake Gives Away and His Life is Crushed Out by Carload of Moving Piling.

Edward Smith, aged 28, of 143 Essex street, Chelsea, Mass., met a horrible death at Kittery Junction this forenoon. He was preparing to unload a flatcar of bridge piling on the York Harbor and Beach branch of the Boston and Maine when a car stake gave away and the big timbers started to roll off the car to the ground. Before Smith could get away nearly the entire load of piling had rolled off and over his body, killing him almost instantly. The body was buried beneath the big sticks in such a way that it was necessary for the services of a railroad steam derrick to remove the same and to extricate him. The men worked 20 minutes before the body was reached. The skull was badly fractured and several bones of the body broken.

The body was removed to the depot baggage room and later examined by Dr. Traynor of Biddeford corner of York county, who pronounced it instant death and ordered the remains turned over to Undertaker O. W. Ham.

Smith was employed by the firm of W. L. Miller and Company of Charlestown who are installing a new draw on the Portsmouth and Kittery bridge. He is a married man and his home was at 143 Essex street, Chelsea where a wife and one child survive. He had been employed on the bridge about a month.

HIS LIFE SAVED BUT HE LOST TEN DOLLARS

Workman at Dover Point Has a Narrow Escape in the Piscataqua.

One of the carpenters employed on the rebuilding of the Dover Point bridge had a narrow escape from drowning. He fell from the lighter into the swift moving tide and the fact that he was a good swimmer saved him from a watery grave. He managed to grab one of the anchor lines which he held on to until the other workmen managed to get a rope to him and haul him back to the side of the lighter.

He was no worse for his unexpected plunge other than his financial standing was not quite so good owing to the fact that $10 which he had in his pockets went to the bottom of the Piscataqua. He came from Chelsea and is employed by Miller Bros. of Charlestown, Mass., who are rebuilding the structure.
